It is up to each person to make their own assessment of the product, taking into account matters including, but not limited to, the version number and the degree to which the materials align with the content descriptions and achievement standards (where relevant). Where there is a claim of alignment, it is important to check that the materials align with the content descriptions and achievement standards (endorsed by all education Ministers), not the elaborations (examples provided by ACARA).

It is important to check the frequency with which the platform or app is updated and, if the platform or app allows users to download the Australian Curriculum to their portable device, how often and in what circumstances the user’s device synchronises with the platform.

No QCAA endorsement or sponsorship is implied. Marks, coats of arms, logos, differently licensed and third-party content are excluded. Student work, photographs and video/audio can carry different or no-derivatives terms; none is included here. The standard-elaborations matrix and glossary were not adopted. Seven ordinary native QCAA requests returned 403 HTML; official indexed text was read separately. No blocked PDF layout is claimed as inspected.
